

Years 9–10 assessment techniques and conditions

Humanities and Social Sciences — History

This document outlines assessment techniques and response conditions to achieve range and balance within an assessment program. Schools consider the local context, and the age and capabilities of the students, when selecting appropriate assessment techniques and response conditions.

Description	An investigation assesses students' abilities to interpret, process, analyse, organise and draw conclusions about evidence from primary and secondary sources. This involves testing a hypothesis or answering a research question.	A project assesses students' abilities to respond to a single task, stimulus, question, situation and/or scenario that gives students authentic opportunities to demonstrate their historical knowledge, understanding and skills.	An examination assesses students' responses that are produced independently, under supervised conditions and in a set timeframe. An examination ensures student authorship.
	An investigation requires students to locate and use evidence that goes beyond the data or information they have been given and the knowledge they currently have. Students: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • develop questions to frame a historical inquiry • analyse information from a range of primary and secondary sources • develop interpretations about the past. Research conventions must be followed, e.g. acknowledging sources regardless of the presentation format.	A project requires students to evaluate and draw conclusions about primary and secondary sources. Primary sources are unprocessed original materials collected by the student.	An examination requires students to respond to one or more assessment items. These items are based on questions or tasks that are typically unseen. Questions or tasks may be based on stimulus material. Stimulus materials may be seen or unseen. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Seen questions, statements or stimulus materials should be provided with sufficient time for students to adequately engage with the materials. • Unseen questions, statements or stimulus materials should not be copied from information or texts that students have previously been exposed to, or have directly used, in class.

Notes

Responses may be written, spoken/signed or multimodal (integrating visual, print and/or audio features), recorded or live.

* Length of student responses should be considered in the context of the assessment. Longer responses do not necessarily provide better quality evidence of achievement.
