Context

Unit 3 explores the concept of 'Art as Knowledge'. This investigation provides opportunities for you to enrich your knowledge and aesthetic experience of the world through critical thinking, making and responding in the contemporary, personal, cultural and/or formal contexts.

As an artist, you will participate in a series of experiences in response to the Brisbane River and its surrounds. These experiences will be stimulus for research and experiments that will inform the focus for your art practice.

As audience, you will consider what you can learn from works of art and the art practice of others and how prior knowledge and experiences can influence the way visual language is read and understood.

Inquiry phase 1 is the initial stage in the self-directed body of work.

Task

- Develop an individual, open-ended inquiry question in response to the series of experiences, which will include:
 - an artist talk by a visiting artist who will facilitate a guided walk along the Brisbane River
 - a practical workshop.
- Investigate your inquiry question through making and responding to generate a personal focus for your body of work.
- Present your investigation in your choice of mode that communicates:
 - your reaction to the stimulus and your inquiry question
 - analysis and interpretation of the works of two key artists and your visual responses to their practices and the stimulus
 - your conclusions drawn from your research and experimentation
 - the focus for your body of work.

To complete this task, you must:

- implement ideas and representations through an inquiry question to generate relevant solutions in response to the artist talk, workshop and artists you investigate

- apply literacy skills using relevant visual art terminology, referencing and language conventions in your choice of mode to recognise and distinguish features of artworks and practices
- analyse and interpret visual language, expression and meaning in artworks and practices through selected contexts and viewpoints
- evaluate relevant primary sources and secondary sources in formulating your ideas
- justify your viewpoints supported by the ideas and information presented through the stimulus
- experiment with visual forms, materials and processes in response to stimulus and experiences
- realise a written, spoken or digital response to communicate your focus.

Stimulus

The stimulus for your investigation is a three - part series of authentic experiences in response to the Brisbane River and its surrounds.

Checkpoints

- Week 4 : Artist talk, excursion and workshop documentation and experimentation.
- Week 6: Inquiry question consultation
- Week 8: Draft submission

Authentication strategies

- Students will be provided class time for task completion.
- Students will each produce a unique response by generating an individual inquiry question and selecting relevant key artists.
- Your teacher will observe you completing work in class.
- Students will provide documentation of their progress at indicated checkpoints.
- The teacher will conduct interviews or consultations with each student as they develop the response.
- Students must acknowledge all sources
- The teacher will ensure class cross-marking occurs.

Scaffolding

Use the inquiry learning process to:

- develop individualised solutions to your inquiry questions through making and responding
- research key artists' practices and experiment with visual forms, materials and processes inspired by your research and experiences during the stimulus events
- reflect on the impact of external and internal influences on your making and responding
- resolve the investigation through making and responding to communicate your focus.
- Consider:
 - ways you can communicate your thoughts, observations, sensory experiences and reactions to the excursion
 - diverse types of information through primary sources (artworks) and secondary sources (e.g. books, journals, credible websites) to build your knowledge about art, key artists and audience
 - the interconnected relationship of selected context/s, visual language, visual forms, materials, processes and meaning
 - how your earlier exploration and experiments might be useful as you develop and justify your personal focus and context.
- refer to the scaffolding resources on My Subjects for templates to assist in documentation of evidence for each mode of communication (ie Written Report, Multimodal or Spoken)
